Day 1: About the Sessions

All times Central

TCU NETWORK COMMUNITY BUILDING

12:10 - 1:05 p.m. Central | Friday, April 23

Drew Hansen, Salish Kootenai College

Earle Crosswait, Saginaw Chippewa Tribal College

Attendees will explore the online communication tool, Slack, to get to know how it can foster community as we work at a distance. We'll lead the group through an activity to learn the features and begin building communication channels.

MOVING INDIGENOUS STATISTICS AND SURVEY RESEARCH WITH INDIGENOUS PEOPLE

1:10 - 2:10 p.m. Central | Friday, April 23

Guest Speaker: Dr. Jameson David Lopez, University of Arizona

When thinking about the limitations of the institutional and national datasets using Indigenous populations, researchers need to consider that most research designs do not adequately address methodological issues associated with small and unrepresentative samples of Natives. To truly understand the limitations of data in Indigenous communities and more justly represent them requires engaging Indigenous communities to address the complexities of Indigenous data. Exploring and evaluating current research that uses data with Indigenous communities, we'll discuss how to create measures within the context of specific tribal communities that privileges community notions of being and knowing.

ONLINE INSTRUCTION: WHAT WORKED AND WHAT WILL SERVE US GOING FORWARD?

2:20 - 3:20 p.m. Central | Friday, April 23

Online instruction was new for many of us. Let's take time to reflect on what we've learned and what we might carry forward from our experience teaching remotely this year. Share thoughts and ideas with your colleagues across TCU campuses in this discussion session.

Day 2: About the Sessions

All times Central

AFFINITY GROUP CONVERSATIONS

12:10 - 1:25 p.m. Central | Friday, April 30

Take a deeper dive into issues and topics of importance to our network—incorporating Native voices, curriculum and assessment contextualization, community building, and others. Participate in an affinity group aligned with your interest and see where the conversation takes you.

APPRECIATING OURSELVES, OUR NETWORK, AND OUR WORK

1:35 - 2:20 p.m. Central | Friday, April 30

After an incredible and unprecedented year of learning, let's take a moment to be grateful. We'll lead participants through a gratitude exercise.
